Questions to be answered in paragraph form:

1. According to the drawings that you have used in your collage, what did Colonial-era Europeans believe that Native Americans looked like? What did they do for occupations? Were they light skinned? Dark? What did they wear? Include as much detail as possible.
2. Write a summary of the descriptions you have read from Documenting the American South. What are the authors' impressions of the American Indians? How do they describe them? Quote directly in places to strengthen your summary.
3. The definition of bias is “an adverse opinion or leaning formed without just grounds or before sufficient knowledge” (Merriam Webster). What bias do you see in the descriptions and drawings that you have found? Where may this bias have come from? (Think critically!) Do the Native Americans speak the same language as the writers? What do the Colonialists value as opposed to the Native Americans? How do you think the writers/artists gather their knowledge? (Remember, many cartographers had never seen a Native American.)
4. Which biases about Native Americans from these times carried through to today's way of thinking? What can we do to correct these biases? What should we do to avoid bias in the future when it comes to judging anything? Be specific!
5. Cite all of your sources! Go to this site to learn how to cite a DocSouth page:
